A primeira edição será exploratória e visa sobretudo a constituição de uma rede de pesquisa que, inicialmente, estará centrada sobre o Estado colonial português. Contudo, e uma vez que a riqueza do tema depende sobretudo da perspectiva comparada, as outras experiências coloniais são parte integrante deste objecto.

CBAAC Colloquium 2013 | Toward a new Pan-Africanism: Deploying Anthropology, Archaeology, History and Philosophy in the service of Africa and the Diaspora, Kingston, Jamaica

Historians are still debating the demographic, economic, social, cultural and religio-metaphysical consequences of enslavement, the slave trade, and the “middle passage” on/for Africa, Africans, and people of African descent in the Caribbean, the Americas and elsewhere.

It is extremely difficult to settle the debate with population figures everybody will agree with. However, the long term psycho-behavioral consequences on the survivors, both in Africa and the Diaspora, have never been addressed systematically.

Authors whose abstracts are accepted would be notified not later than 15th of May, 2013, while all papers for presentation must be received in electronic format not later than 15th July, 2013.

CBAAC and PANAFSTRAG in collaboration with The University of the West Indies, Mona Kingston, Jamaica.

CBAAC is not in a position to provide sponsorship for participants in this year’s Colloquium. Consequently, participants are encouraged to seek funding from other sources.

The official languages of the Conference are: English, French, Spanish and Portuguese.

Slavery, Migration and Contemporary Bondage in Africa

The essays in this volume draw upon an extensive body of new archival research and extended fieldwork in order to develop a conversation between experts on the history of slavery and abolition and social scientists, advocates and practitioners concerned with human bondage as it persists today. The product of this venture is a new and compelling set of stories about how slavery has continued, evolved and been reconstituted from the pre-colonial period to the present. By exposing the historical roots of a number of contemporary problems, this book offers new insights and information in order to help understand and eliminate human bondage in Africa.

“It is tragic that after over two centuries of struggle, the world is not yet done with slavery. It just keeps reappearing. Quirk and Vigneswaran have pulled together a group of excellent essays charting the continuing historical legacies and recent emergence of new forms of slavery in Africa.”

Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa. The Impact of Chinese, Indian and Brazilian Investments

The subject of food security and land issues in Africa has become one of increased importance and contention over recent years.

In particular, the focus has shifted to the role new Global South donors - in particular India, China and Brazil - are playing in shaping African agriculture through their increased involvement and investment in the continent. Approaching the topic through the framework of South-South co-operation (SSC), this highly original volume presents a critical analysis of the ways in which Chinese, Indian and Brazilian engagements in African agriculture are structured and implemented.

Topical and comprehensive, ‘Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa’ offers fresh insight into a set of relationships that will shape both Africa and the world over the coming decades.

The Sexual History of the Global South. Sexual Politics in Africa, Asia, and Latin America

The Sexual History of the Global South explores the gap between sexuality studies and post-colonial cultural critique. Featuring twelve case studies, based on original historical and ethnographic research from countries in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, the book examines the sexual investments underlying the colonial project and the construction of modern nation-states.

Covering issues of heteronormativity, post-colonial amnesia regarding non-normative sexualities, women’s sexual agency, the policing of the boundaries between the public and the private realm, sexual citizenship, the connections between LGBTQ activism and processes of state formation, and the emergence of sexuality studies in the global South, this collection is of great geographical, historical, and topical significance.

The Morality of China in Africa. The Middle Kingdom and the Dark Continent

Edited with authority by the influential and respected Stephen Chan, this unique collection of essays gathers together for the first time both African and Chinese perspectives on China's place in Africa.

The book starts with an excellent introductory essay from Stephen Chan, written in his usual elegant prose and featuring some very fresh insights organised with great clarity. Featuring useful historical context, this brave book analyses the 'moral' aspects of the policies and ensuing migration.

The book completely undermines existing assumptions concerning Sino-African relations, such as that Africa is of critical importance for China; that China sees no risk in its largesse towards Africa; and that there is a single Chinese profile/agenda.

The resulting collection touches the issue of racism but equally about moments of pure idealism and 'romance' in Sino-African history.

The Great African Land Grab? Agricultural Investments and the Global Food System

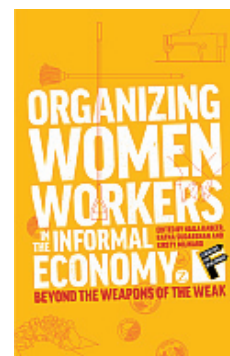

Over the past few years, large-scale land acquisitions in Africa have stoked controversy, making headlines in media reports across the world.

Land that only a short time ago seemed of little outside interest is now being sought by international investors to the tune of hundreds of thousands of hectares.

Private sector expectations of higher world food and commodity price, and government concerns about longer-term national food and energy security, have both made land a more attractive asset.

Dubbed 'land grabs' in the media, large-scale land acquisitions have become one of the most talked about and contentious topics amongst those studying, working in or writing about Africa.

Organizing Women Workers in the Informal Economy. Beyond the Weapons of the Weak

Women as a group have often been divided by a number of intersecting inequalities: class, race, ethnicity, caste. As individuals - often isolated in reproductive or other home-based work - their weapons of resistance have tended to be restricted to the traditional weapons of the weak: hidden subversions and individualised struggles.

Organizing Women Workers in the Informal Economy explores the emergence of an alternative repertoire among women working in the growing informal sectors of the global South: the weapons of organization and mobilization.

This crucial book offers vibrant accounts of how women working as farm workers, sex workers, domestic workers, waste pickers, fisheries workers and migrant factory workers have organized for collective action.

Africa and the War on Drugs

Nigerian drug lords in UK prisons, khat-chewing Somali pirates hijacking Western ships, crystal meth-smoking gangs controlling South Africa's streets, and narco-traffickers corrupting the state in Guinea-Bissau: these are some of the vivid images surrounding drugs in Africa which have alarmed policymakers, academics and the general public in recent years. In this revealing and original book, the authors weave these aspects into a provocative argument about Africa's role in the global trade and control of drugs. In doing so, they show how foreign-inspired policies have failed to help African drug users but have strengthened the role of corrupt and brutal law enforcement officers, who are tasked with halting the export of heroin and cocaine to European and American consumer markets.

A vital book on an overlooked front of the so-called war on drugs.

What psychological impact does studying slavery have on children?

How can this impact be influenced by teaching African and African diaspora history?

This volume reflects on what we teach and the way we teach in breaking the silence on the subject of slavery and its consequences.

Cuba and Angola. Fighting for Africa's Freedom and Our Own

Twenty-five years ago, in March 1988, the army of South Africa's apartheid regime was dealt a crushing defeat by Cuban, Angolan, and Namibian combatants at the battle of Cuito Cuanavale in Angola. That triumph, South Africa's future president Nelson Mandela proclaimed, marked “a milestone in the history of the struggle for southern African liberation.”

With the victory at Cuito Cuanavale, Angola's sovereignty was secured. Namibia's independence was won. The deepening revolutionary struggle in South Africa received a powerful boost. And the Cuban Revolution too was strengthened. Between 1975 and 1991 some 425,000 Cubans volunteered for duty in Angola in response to requests from the Angolan government to help defend the newly independent country against multiple invasions by South Africa's white-supremacist regime, backed by its allies in Washington and elsewhere.

Les Voies du Soufisme au Sud du Sahara

Recueil d'essais en grande partie inédits, cette somme d'études est constituée autour de l'islam et du soufisme en Afrique au sud du Sahara.

Dans une suite d'analyses, l'auteur rend compte des aspects historiques et anthropologiques du soufisme de cette région, mais aussi des mouvements fondamentalistes actuels au Sénégal, au Mali ou encore au Nigeria.

Depuis le symbolisme de la prière jusqu'aux formes politiques de l'islam au Nigeria du Nord, d'un ordre soufi comme la Hamalliyya marginalisé par le colonialisme français, de l'esclavage en Afrique de l'Ouest aux portraits d'al-Hajj 'Umar Tal et Ibrahim Niassé, Adriana Piga dresse aussi à cette occasion, les multiples interrelations entre islam et ethnicité.

L'Ouest Saharien. La Perception de L'Espace dans La Pensée Politique Tribale

Cet ouvrage explore les valeurs tribales et leur dimension identitaire dont la prise en compte est indispensable pour trouver des solutions au conflit du Sahara espagnol, issu de la décolonisation. L'étude souligne qu'au lieu de revenir à la base, l'ONU est partie d'en haut, ignorant les droits des Sahraouis absents des listes espagnoles de 1974, seules considérées comme le référentiel identitaire.

L'identification des votants au référendum d'autodétermination des populations du Sahara occidental est en effet la condition du règlement de ce conflit, nécessitant la définition des tribus du Wad Nun et de la Sagiya al-Hamra. Pour distinguer ces deux régions, situées au cœur de l'espace ouest-saharien, on mobilise généralement la question des modes de gestion de l'espace, qui implique de déterminer la place du droit tribal et celle de la propriété.

Les Royaumes Wolof dans L'Espace Senegambien (XIIIe-XVIIIe Siècle)

Il fut contemporain de l'empire du Mali dont il dut probablement, de façon souple, reconnaître l'hégémonie. Mais, situé aux confins de cet empire et limitrophe du Sahara, participant directement aux courants d'échanges transsahariens, sur le plan culturel comme sur le plan économique, il se comporta comme un compartiment autonome du monde soudanais.

Au milieu du XVe siècle, l'arrivée des caravelles portugaises ouvrit une ère nouvelle pour la Sénégambie dont la côte devint lieu de contacts et d'échanges. Ce Soudan extrême-occidental devint un Soudan atlantique. Il entra dans un système économique dont l'impact sera une des causes de la dislocation du Grand Jolof. Les royaumes qui étaient sous son hégémonie, wolof, sérer, malinké, se soulevèrent ou se détachèrent.

Eglise Catholique, Etat et Société Civil au Cameroun de 1884 a nos Jours

Les intellectuels qui fréquentent les universités catholiques reconnaissent volontiers que, dans ces endroits-là, on bâtit plus souvent des ponts que des murs. Rien de pire, en effet, pour la fécondité de l'esprit, que de cloisonner les savoirs et les milieux: l'heure est aux «ponts» qui font se rencontrer les disciplines, pour le profit de chacune d'elles. Il en va de même pour la société, d'une part, l'Eglise d'autre part, car ces deux milieux ont des richesses à partager.

Depuis plus de XX siècles, l'Eglise porte en elle une sagesse dont les sociétés africaines ont déjà tiré, -et tireront encore- de grands profits. Mais l'inverse est vrai aussi: les spécialistes des différentes disciplines peuvent aider l'Eglise à comprendre le monde de telle sorte qu'elle y exerce sa mission de façon toujours plus pertinente.

Carnival – Theory and Practice

The selection of essays in this volume is designed to give a clear focus on Carnival in the Caribbean and throughout the Caribbean Diaspora, exploring the sources of the Carnival tradition, its history and present state in Trinidad and elsewhere in the Caribbean, as well as carnival developments in London, New Orleans and Toronto.

Putting Carnival in perspective, the volume opens with a brilliant, bravura historical and artistic rant by the pre-eminent Carnival designer, Peter Minshall, provocatively entitled “Nignorance & Enwhitenment,” which covers his own stellar career in highly personal detail, as well as giving an astriquent political commentary on what he describes as the degrading commercialization and touristification of Trinidad's Carnival.

SheMurenga: The Zimbabwean Women's Movement 1995-2000

This book demonstrates the place of women's movements during a defining period of contemporary Zimbabwe. The government of Robert Mugabe may have been as firmly in power in 2000 as it was in 1995, but the intervening years saw severe economic crisis, mass strikes and protests, the start of land occupations, intervention in the war in the DRC, and the rise of the opposition Movement for Democratic Change.

Shereen Essof shows how Zimbabwean women crafted responses to these and other events, and aimed for a feminist agenda that would prioritise the interests of the rural and urban poor. Rejecting both the strictures of patriarchy and the orthodoxies of established feminism, she demands that Zimbabwe's women be heard in their own voices and in their own contexts. In doing so she writes a book that combines scholarly integrity with a wild, joyous cry for liberation.

Democracy and Prebendalism in Nigeria. Critical Interpretations

Celebrating the original publication of Richard Joseph's seminal book Democracy and Prebendal Politics in Nigeria, this state-of-the-field collection brings together leading scholars of Nigeria for a creative and robust engagement with the nation's experiments and experiences with liberal democracy.

They explore a range of issues central to Nigerian politics today, including major developments since the 1980s, the role of petroleum, factors related to religion and class, and the question of whether prebendal clientelism is even a useful model for understanding the current state of Nigerian democracy.

Across varied methodologies and disciplinary backgrounds, these and other pertinent questions receive a penetrating and comprehensive analysis.

Business of Civil War. New Forms of Life in the Debris of the Democratic Republic of Congo

Within the context of the absence of effective state sovereignty and the presence of numerous armed struggles for power, Nande traders have managed to build and protect self-sustaining, prosperous, transnational economic enterprises in eastern Congo.

This book discusses the commercial enterprises of the Nande trust networks and the subsequent transnational community they have produced, thereby challenging the assumption that a “weak state” or a “failed state” or even a “collapsed state” can be presumed to signal a “failed” society. It demonstrates the fact that several sovereignties and property right systems can co-exist side by side, reinforcing each other - an idea which seems inconceivable for those with a normative view of governmental institutions and state sovereignty.

Light and Power for a Multiracial Nation. The Kariba Dam Scheme in the Central African Federation

The Kariba Dam, stretching across the Zambezi River between today's Zambia and Zimbabwe, was one of the most famous development projects in Africa in the late 1950s. As a producer of abundant and cheap power, Kariba was to boost the economy of the newly established Central African Federation.

The book shows how the dam project crystallised both the hopes and the flaws of the Federation, a highly controversial experiment of ‘multi-racial’ nation-building by which the British colonial power meant to appease both settler and African aspirations for independence.

The author sketches the perspectives of a great variety of people involved in the Kariba project, including World Bank experts, colonial administrators, the local population, nationalist politicians, and the workers building the dam.

Malcolm X, la libération des Noirs et la voie vers le pouvoir ouvrier

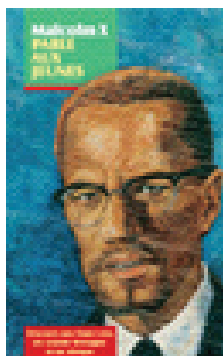

Stimulée par le besoin insatiable du capital en force de travail et en chair à canon pour ses guerres, la migration massive des Noirs du Sud rural des États-Unis vers les villes et les usines à travers le continent a jeté les bases de la montée explosive de la lutte de libération des Noirs dans ce pays à partir du milieu des années 1950.

Malcolm X en émerge alors comme son plus remarquable dirigeant.

Ce mouvement colossal, insiste-t-il, fait partie d'une bataille révolutionnaire mondiale pour les droits humains: «un affrontement entre ceux qui veulent la liberté, la justice et l'égalité et ceux qui veulent maintenir les systèmes d'exploitation.»

Comprend quatre cahiers photo et plus de 130 photos et dessins, une introduction de l'auteur, un index et un glossaire.

«Quant à moi, je me joindrai à n'importe qui, je me fiche de votre couleur, du moment que vous voulez changer la condition misérable qui existe sur cette terre.»

Quatre discours et un entretien donnés au Ghana, au Royaume-Uni et aux États-Unis dans les derniers mois de la vie de Malcolm.

Thomas Sankara Speaks. The Burkina Faso Revolution 1983–87

Under Sankara's leadership, the revolutionary government of Burkina Faso in West Africa set an electrifying example.

Peasants, workers, women, and youth mobilized to carry out literacy and immunization drives; to sink wells, plant trees, build dams, erect housing; to combat the oppression of women and transform exploitative relations on the land; to free themselves from the imperialist yoke and solidarize with others engaged in that fight internationally.

Second edition includes a preface by Mary-Alice Waters, a new introduction by editor Michel Prairie, maps, chronology, glossary, and index.

Cuba et la révolution américaine à venir

Ce livre porte sur les perspectives d'une révolution aux États-Unis, où les capacités politiques des travailleurs et des agriculteurs sont aujourd'hui aussi totalement ignorées par les puissances dirigeantes que celles des travailleurs et des paysans cubains.

Il porte sur l'exemple donné par le peuple cubain que la révolution est non seulement nécessaire, mais possible.

Aussi en anglais, espagnol et farsi.

La révolution à venir en Afrique du Sud. Nouvelle Internationale n.º 2

Les élections au suffrage universel et la victoire éclatante du Congrès national africain en 1994 ont été des pas historiques de la révolution démocratique en Afrique du Sud.

Cet article explore le caractère social et les racines de l'apartheid dans le capitalisme sud-africain et les tâches des travailleurs des villes et des campagnes pour démanteler l'héritage d'inégalité raciste et de classe.

C'est parmi les cadres les plus engagés de cette lutte dirigée par l'ANC, écrit Jack Barnes, que la classe ouvrière peut commencer à forger une direction communiste.

Aussi en anglais et espagnol.

Le deuxième assassinat de Maurice Bishop. Nouvelle Internationale n.º 3

En mars 1979, les petits agriculteurs, les travailleurs et les jeunes de l'île de Grenade ont renversé le dictateur soutenu par les États-Unis, porté au pouvoir un gouvernement révolutionnaire sous la direction de Maurice Bishop et commencé à affronter le sous-développement imposé par la domination impérialiste.

Cet article analyse les réalisations de la révolution, ainsi que le coup d'État stalinien qui a conduit à son renversement et à l'invasion de l'île par Washington en octobre 1983.

Chamada de Colaborações

Revue Politique africaine - dossier "Travail et politique". Appel à contributions pour la revue

Publiée par les éditions Karthala, Politique Africaine est une revue pluridisciplinaire d'analyse du politique en Afrique. Créée au début des années 1980 en rupture avec les approches dominantes, elle s'est imposée en France et à l'étranger, comme une publication de référence pour l'ensemble de la communauté "africaniste" internationale.

Par la nouveauté de ses questionnements, elle a profondément renouvelé la lecture des évolutions du continent et contribué à l'affirmation d'un courant de recherche reconnu au-delà des pays francophones.

La nouvelle formule de Politique Africaine, mise en oeuvre depuis 1999, entend rendre compte encore plus fidèlement des modalités complexes d'invention de la modernité qui s'opèrent en Afrique, surtout au sud du Sahara sans récuser les liens croissants qui existent avec le reste du continent. Elle entend aussi refléter en toute indépendance les débats sur l'avenir de l'Afrique.

Les propositions de contribution (une page) sont à envoyer au coordinateur (bazinlaurent@wanadoo.fr) d'ici au 15 mai 2013. Les articles retenus devront être remis au plus tard le 15 septembre 2013 pour évaluation par la rédaction de la revue. Dossier coordonné par Laurent Bazin (CNRS-CLERSÉ)

Date de publication prévue du dossier: mars 2014.
